Subject: Microsoft Settlement: deep concerns

Dear Sir / Madam,

I'm deeply concerned about the proposed Microsoft Settlement.

I just read that despite its numerous legal and syntactic flaws which allow Microsoft too much freedom in interpreting its rules, it's about to get passed.

It's been clear almost from the beginning to many people that the Settlement as proposed by Microsoft is way too weak. And now people tell me that it's probably going to be passed. Once this happens, then I'll know what to really think of the American "Justice" system.

I'd like you to think again before deciding on this issue.

Yours sincerely,

Andreas Mohr, Open Source programmer
